Which response below best describes how you are feeling this holiday season? We ask in an effort to help organizations like Project Liberty and Project Phoenix improve their outreach. (Please also review our guest writer article on this topic under the "News" section.)

Although I feel sad at times, in general, I feel like I am a little better than last year.

I expected to feel better, but actually feel the same as last year.

I find this holiday season to be much worse than last year and feel like I am not getting better.

I need more support! I will contact your organization to find local family support groups and/or help. Call toll-free 866-367-1146 or e-mail info@familiesofseptember11.org for assistance.

Are you concerned about the lack of information & action regarding the return of our loved ones' property recovered from Ground Zero, even after 14 months?

Yes, we have waited long enough.

No, I do not want my loved one's personal property returned to our family.
